

This action is extremely excessive and potentially very damaging to the amateur radio service. Allowing entry-level amateurs privileges to all amateur bands and almost the entire spectrum could result in lesser disciplined individuals obtaining licenses and using the service for means than which it is intended for. I agree that HF phone privileges need to be assigned to the entry level class, however this move would damage the amateur service more than it could help.